Angels' Place received the award for consistently providing positive, nurturing community based settings for persons with developmental disabilities," read Deena Centofanti, Fox 2 anchor and emcee of the event. "

Angels' Place is committed and creative in providing fulfilling life experiences for the residents they serve."

"Never doubt, that a small group of thoughtful committed citizens can change the world; indeed, it is the only thing that ever has." "That quote of Margaret Mead, made me think about how Angels' Place began," said Cheryl Loveday, Executive Director of Angels' Place, in her acceptance remarks. "To me, the Angels' Place story is an amazing story of hope and inspiration, how five moms concerned about the future for their children came up with the idea of Angels' Place. And that group of thoughtful, committed citizens, with the help of a lot of good people, made a dream into a reality and a small piece of the world was changed."
